

IQ<sup>POWER</sup> Plus Spray

IQ Power Plus Spray is WellNetIQ’s daily broad-spectrum cannabinoid product. IQ Power Plus Spray features 1500 mg of total cannabinoids. This means, it is just much more than just CBD, as many other companies claim. The CBD is derived from the hemp plant, or in Latin cannabis sativa. This powerful health boosting plant features more than 100 different cannabinoids that each have their own specific beneficial effect. Of course, we source the cannabinoids from organically grown hemp in Germany. They interact in our body through the endo-cannabinoid system, which has a multitude of effects in our biochemistry. In fact, the term endocannabinoid deficiency describes the possible future health concerns that you may develop if your body does not have access to adequate cannabinoids. The most important benefit they deliver is homeostasis, the essential balancing effect of your biochemistry. If your body receives the essential phytonutrients it needs, it can prevent or delay many health concerns. Read about all the scientific studies at our science library:

BIOAVAILABILITY

As with all (phyto)nutrients, they have to be absorbed from our intestinal tract to reach the sites in our body where the effects are delivered. Cannabinoids can be difficult to absorb if the wrong carrier oil is used. WellNetIQ uses MCT (Medium Chain Triglyceride) oil derived from coconut, that has been shown to increase the absorbance rate by a significant amount compared to ordinary delivery forms. The spray delivery form makes the bioavailability even higher as it disperses the oil more evenly in your mouth.
